

Francis P. Sutter, DO '76
Clinical Professor of Surgery, Jefferson Medical College
Chief, Cardiac Surgery, Lankenau Hospital

PCOM alumni are assuming leadership positions in unprecedented numbers.

Your contribution will help PCOM continue to provide the quality education that yields highly-respected physician leaders.

Philadelphia
College of Osteopathic
Medicine

BE PROUD
YOUR SCHOOL. YOUR SUCCESS.

Never before have so many osteopathic physicians been in leadership positions across all disciplines of medicine. PCOM alumni, in particular, now command an unprecedented level of respect thanks, in part, to the top quality medical education they received. Your continued support of our million dollar goal each year will help to ensure that more PCOM alumni follow in the footsteps of leaders like Drs. Sutter and Rogove.

"I was one of the first DOs to enter the field of critical care medicine. Now president of my own consulting company, I'm on the cutting edge of the field, partnering with the pioneers of surgical robotics to provide critical care coverage via telemedicine to hospitals nationwide."

– Herbert Rogove, DO '73, FCCM, FACP
President/CEO, C30 Medical Group, Inc.

"My education at PCOM prepared me for leadership in the most competitive disciplines and institutions. I take special pride in my appointment as clinical professor of surgery at Jefferson Medical College where, years ago, I fought to get a residency. I'm also proud to be the busiest robotic coronary bypass surgeon in the United States. Please join me in giving back to PCOM."

– Francis P. Sutter, DO '76

Your contribution supports the highly-respected education we provide.

"As a pre-med advisor to Penn State students for nearly three decades,
I found it easy to recommend PCOM because of its excellent reputation.
Over the years, I have seen how successful PCOM graduates are."

— Robert B. Mitchell, PhD
Emeritus Director of Pre-Medicine Program,
The Pennsylvania State University

Philadelphia
College of Osteopathic
Medicine

BE PROUD
YOUR SCHOOL. YOUR SUCCESS.

*Y*our contributions are making a significant difference in our ongoing ability to provide our students with the quality education respected by pre-medical advisors at nationally ranked colleges such as Penn State. Your continued support of our million dollar goal each year will ensure that PCOM's reputation for excellence endures and grows . . . and that the value of your degree grows along with it.

Make your Unrestricted Annual Fund gift today.

During my tenure, hundreds of Penn State graduates chose to attend PCOM, and I've heard nothing but positive comments about their experiences. Student after student has glowing praise for the quality of instruction, the commitment of the faculty, and the unique, tight-knit community they enjoy at PCOM. That's why PCOM is regarded as one of the top osteopathic schools in the country."

– Dr. Robert B. Mitchell

Carol Fox, MM, associate vice president for enrollment management, PCOM, and Dr. Mitchell.

Your contribution strengthens our legacy of excellence.

"PCOM's rigorous educational program and collaborative atmosphere prepared me very well for positions of leadership as well as clinical practice. Now my son, Kevin, is a first-year student, and I'm confident that the strength of his PCOM experience will open doors of opportunity for him as well." – James P. Dwyer, DO '75, MBA, Executive Vice President & Chief Medical Officer, Virtua Health

Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine

BE PROUD
YOUR SCHOOL. YOUR SUCCESS.

Every generation of PCOM alumni has sacrificed to ensure the success of future generations. Your contributions are making a significant difference in our ongoing ability to provide our students with the quality education that yields highly successful physicians like Dr. Dwyer. Your continued support of our million dollar goal each year will ensure that PCOM's legacy of excellence endures and grows . . . and that the value of your degree grows along with it.

"As Chief Medical Officer for Virtua Health, I recognize the critical importance of collaboration and teamwork in clinical practice today.

I am impressed with the absolute commitment of PCOM's leadership to use annual fund contributions for educational purposes that directly benefit students. I'm confident that PCOM will continue to produce outstanding physicians and continue to make us proud to be graduates of what I believe is the best osteopathic program in existence. Please join me in giving back to PCOM."

— James P. Dwyer,
DO '75, MBA

